Vol. III

Record Supplement for December, 1940

No. 12

ANON: Les Choeurs Angéliques. See DEBROUS-SET: Qu'en un Instant.

BACH: The Little Organ Book—Nos. 5 to 16. E. Power Biggs (Baroque Organ of the Germanic Museum, Cambridge, Mass.). Two 12" discs (4 sides), in Set VM-711 price complete with album $2.50

This is the final album of this series Victor Set—Volume III, and includes the following:

CHRISTMAS

- No. 5 — Puer Natus in Bethlehem
- No. 6 — Gelobet seist du, Jesu Christ
- No. 7 — Der Tag, der ist so freudenrich
- No. 8 — Vom Himmel hoch, da komm' ich her
- No. 9 — Vom Himmel kam der Engel Schaar
- No. 10 — In Dulci Jubilo
- No. 11 — Lobt Gott, Ihr Christen, allzugleich
- No. 12 — Jesu, meine Freude
- No. 13 — Christum wir sollen loben schon
- No. 14 — Wir Christenleut'

NEW YEAR'S EVE

- No. 15 — Helft mir Gottes Güte preisen
- No. 16 — Das alte Jahr vergangen ist

The same fine recording which has characterized the two previous volumes of this series is again apparent. Mr. Biggs and Victor have completed a monumental achievement which should be warmly welcomed by all music lovers, and particularly by admirers of Bach.

BACH: Chorales. The Trapp Family Choir (unaccompanied), conducted by Franz Wasner. Four 10" discs (8 sides), in Set VM-713; price complete with album $3.50

Von Himmel hoch (Christmas Oratorio)
Lobt Gott ihr Christen allzugleich (Cantata No. 151)
Dir, Dir Jehova (Anna Magdalena's Note-book)

Lobe den Herren (Cantata No. 57)

Wachet auf (Church Cantata — Wachet auf)

Nun danket alle Gott (from Three Wedding Chorales)

O Haupt voll Blut und Wunden (St. Matthew Passion — No. 63)

Wie schön leuchtet der Morgenstern (Cantata No. 36)

The excellencies and limitations of the Trapp Family Choir are well known to the record buying public through their other contributions to the lists. Their selection of Chorales has been well recorded, and the performance is up to their usual standards.

BARTOK (BELA)

BARTOK: Rhapsody (Violin and Piano) No. 1. Joseph Szigeti and Béla Bartók. 12" disc, (2 sides), No. C-11410D; $1

Based on the folk music of his native Transylvania, Bartók's treatment of the themes will be most interesting to the student of modern music. Unfortunately we hold little in common with the development and treatment such as we find it here; preferring our folk music "straight."

The performance can be said to be authoritative, and the recording has caught the varying shades and nuances of the violin to perfection.

BEETHOVEN (LUDWIG VAN)

BEETHOVEN: Quartet (Strings) No. 5, in A Major, Op. 18, No. 5. The Coolidge Quartet. Three 12" discs (5 sides, last side blank), in Set VM-716†; price complete with album $3

The Coolidges contribute another "first" to the Victor list. This quartet was first conceived in the year 1799, for all of the themes are to be found in Beethoven's notebook of that year. Written in four movements: Allegro; Menuetto; Andante cantabile; Allegro, this work contrasts sharply with the preceding quartet. The sweeping emotional drive, the incisive dramatic accent give way here to a more restrained level of emotion.

The performance by the Coolidges is on the whole very satisfying, but they do not possess the suavity of the Léners, whose interpretation, CM-301, has been greatly admired.

The Coolidges have been well recorded.

BELLINI (VINCENZO)

BELLINI: Norma — Casta Diva, Act I. Dusolina Giannini (soprano, in Italian) with La Scala Chorus and Orchestra, conducted by Carlo Sabajno. 12" disc (2 sides), No. V-17503; $1

Only once before since the advent of electrical recording has this, the most difficult of all soprano arias, been satisfactorily recorded. Rosa Ponselle (V-8110) set a very high standard of comparison, and it is matched in this recording by another great American interpreter of this part, Dusolina Giannini. This aria, making as it does, great demands of the artist's vocal and technical resources, is beautifully sung by Miss Giannini. Her dark rich voice and superb mastery of the difficult florid passages have been faithfully captured on this well balanced and recorded disc.

BRAHMS (JOHANNES)

BRAHMS: Variations on a Theme of Haydn, Op. 56b. Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson (two pianos). Two 12" discs (4 sides), in Set CM-X181; price complete with album $2.50

As far as we can trace, this is the first recording of the variations on the Chorale St. Antoni in the two piano version which Brahms and Clara Schumann played together. This work is identical with the orchestral version, and is in nine parts: Poco piu animato; Piu vivace; Con moto; Andante con moto; Vivace; Vivace; Grazioso; Presto non troppo; Finale.

Bartlett and Robinson perform in their usual expert manner. In the sixth, and again in the final, variation, there is a slight deviation from their usual precision, but this is a small point in such a fine performance.

Matching the performance is recording notable for the fidelity with which the piano tone has been captured. Even in the fortissimi passages the full sonorities of the instruments are clear and brilliant.

DEBOUSSET: Qu'en un Instant & VIVET: Cantate Domino; ANON: Les Choeurs Angéliques. Strasbourg Cathedral Choir, conducted by Abbe Alphonse Hoch. 12" disc, No. C-70372D; $1

As sung by the Strasbourg Cathedral Choir in a simple unaffected manner, these three old French Christmas carols are interpreted with a sensitive and exquisitely balanced tone.

The recording is very good.

DUKAS (PAUL)

DUKAS: L'Apprenti Sorcier. (3 sides) & RIMSKY KORSAKOV: Ivan the Terrible—Prelude to Act III. The Philadelphia Orchestra, conducted by Leopold Stokowski. Two 12" discs, in Set VM-717; $2.50

Dukas based this effective work on a poem by Goethe. The Sorcerer's Apprentice is given a very satisfactory interpretation here, and the Hunt and Storm Music, as the prelude to Act III of Ivan the Terrible is sometimes known, is a good choice as a coupler.

Originally released in England in 1938, the recording will be found to be first-rate, and if your preference is for a more "gallic" reading we suggest the version by the Paris Conservatory Orchestra, conducted by Philippe Gaubert (CM-X75).

GODEFROID: Etude de Concert. See RESPIGHI: Siciliana.

GRIEG (EDVARD)

GRIEG: Haugtussa, Op. 67. Kirsten Flagstad (soprano, in Norwegian) with Edwin McArthur (piano). Four 12" discs (8 sides), in Set VM-714; price complete with album $4.50

The Haugtussa song cycle is regarded by many as one of the finest of Grieg's endeavors in the literature of song. It is set to poems from a volume of the folk-poet Arne Garborg, which Grieg considered "a masterpiece, full of simplicity and depth and indescribably beautiful in color."

Haugtussa is a strange, lovely young peasant girl; sensitive and keenly attuned to the enchantment of her Norwegian mountains, streams and forests. Her mind is beautifully imaginative, with an iridescent fusion of dreams and reality. The peasants find her odd — call her bewitched. There are eight parts to the cycle: Det sygn ("It sings"); Veslemöy ("Young-maiden"); Blaabaerli ("Blueberry-field"); Möte ("Tryst"); Elsk ("Ecstasy"); Killingdans ("Dance of the Goatlings"); Vond Dag ("Day of Ache"); Ved Gjaetlebekken ("The Brook").

Mme. Flagstad features this work on her recital programs, and by her own request has recorded her interpretation for her legion of admirers. She sings with simplicity, in fact so much so that, since the Norwegian text is unfamiliar, much of its meaning is lost to those to whom a warmer and more expressive organ could better convey the moods of the poems and the settings.

The recording is first rate, having captured the Flagstad voice most faithfully, and maintains a good balance between voice and piano.

GRIEG: Peer Gynt—Suite No. 1, Op. 46. The London Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham. Two 12" discs (4 sides), in Set CM-X180; $2.50

The First Suite consists of four members which Grieg made up of his incidental music to Ibsen's play — Morning, Death of Ase, Anitra's Dance and In The Hall of The Mountain King. The scoring is very colorful and under Sir Thomas's direction we have a masterly reading of these hackneyed war-horses.

Sir Thomas's interpretative genius has been closely paralleled by the recording engineers, and the resulting clean, clear recording definitely supersedes all existing versions.

HUMPERDINCK (ENGELBERT)

HUMPERDINCK: Hänsel und Gretel - Suite. The CB Symphony, conducted by Howard Barlow. Three 10" discs (6 sides), in Set CM-424†; price complete with album $2.75

Mr. Barlow and the CB Symphony give us a most appropriate recording of what is to many their favorite Christmas music. This suite is made up of the following three selections from the opera's score: Overture; Dream Pantomime; Waltz.

The recording is very good, giving us a well balanced and transparent account of Mr. Barlow's reading, which brings out all the delicate texture and lyrical charm of the score.

LUTHER (MARTIN)

LUTHER: Away in a Manger (arr. Wasner) & WASNER: Kindersegen. The Trapp Family Choir, conducted by Franz Wasner. 10" disc, No. V-2118; 75c

Two charming numbers appropriate for the Christmas season. The singing and recording are satisfactory.

MOSZKOWSKI (MORITZ)

MOSZKOWSKI: Spanish Dances, Op. 12-No. 5, Bolero in D Major & No. 2, Spanish Dance in G Minor. The Boston "Pops" Orchestra, conducted by Arthur Fiedler. 10" disc, No. V-4532; 75c

Two "Pop" numbers played and recorded in the best "Pops" manner with some distinguished clarinet playing by Manuel Valerio in the Spanish Dance.

MOUSSORGSKY (MODESTE)

MOUSSORGSKY: The Nursery - A Song Cycle. Igor Gorin (baritone, in English) with Adolf Baller (piano). Three 10" discs, (6 sides), in Set VM-686; price complete with album $2.75

Moussorgsky's charming cycle of children's songs escaped the notice of the recorders until Columbia presented Betty Martin (C-J14) in their special series of records for children.

Igor Gorin, very subdued in voice, presents his version of six of the songs with the capable assistance of Adolf Baller. The omitted song is No. 2—In the Corner.

The recording is good, and Mr. Gorin's enunciation is clear, but we feel that Miss Martin's light soprano voice is better suited for children.

MOZART (WOLFGANG AMADEUS)

MOZART: Duetto Concertante (arr. Busoni). Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin (two pianos). 12" disc (2 sides), No. V-13500; $1

Published in 1919, this work is based on the Finale of a Piano Concerto in F Major. More Busoni than Mozart, this work is welcome as a definite addition to the repertory of music for two pianos.

Vronsky and Babin play this light work with their usual good taste, and the recording is good, but not as clear or brilliant as the Brahms Variations by Bartlett and Robinson reviewed above.

PUCCINI (GIACOMO)

PUCCINI: Madama Butterfly—Complete Recording. Famous Artists with Chorus and Orchestra of the Royal Opera (Rome), conducted by Oliviero de Fabritiis. Sixteen 12" discs (32 sides), in Sets VM-700†/1†; price complete with albums $17

Madama Butterfly (Cho-Cho-San)

Toti Dal Monti (S)
B. F. Pinkerton.....Beniamino Gigli (T)
Suzuki, Cho-Cho-San's Servant....V. Palombini (Ms)
Sharpless, U. S. Consul at Nagasaki

Mario Basiola (B)
Goro, a marriage broker.....Zagonara (T)
Prince Yamadori, suitor for Cho-Cho-San

Conti (Bs)
The Bonze, Cho-Cho-San's uncle.....Dominici (Bs)
Kate Pinkerton, Pinkerton's American wife; Cho-Cho-San's relations and friends; Servants. Chorus and Orchestra of the Royal Opera (Rome), conducted by Oliviero de Fabritiis.

A new and complete recording of Madama Butterfly is most welcome at this time. With the above distinguished cast, of which the leading protagonists are former Metropolitan members, great interest by opera enthusiasts will be shown.

The casting of Mme. Dal Monti known chiefly in America for her coloratura roles, as Cho-Cho-San comes as a distinct surprise. However, once she is past the entrance song, there is much to admire in her interpretation of the part. The interest, no doubt, will center around Gigli whose rich warm voice is ideally suited for the role of Pinkerton, while Basiola gives credibility to the music of Sharpless.

Up to the time of going to press only the volume containing the first act had arrived, so it will be necessary to complete the review in the January 1941 Record Supplement.

The same high standard of singing and playing under the direction of Maestro De Fabritiis which made the complete recording of Tosca (VM-539/40) such a distinct success is again in evidence, while crystal clear recording and fine balance have contributed to give us another outstanding operatic recording.

RACHMANINOFF (SERGEI)

RACHMANINOFF: Concerto (Piano and Orchestra) No. 3, in D Minor, Op. 30. Sergei Rachmaninoff and the Philadelphia Orchestra, conducted by Eugene Ormandy. Five 12" discs, (9 sides, last side blank), in Set VM-710†; price complete with album $5

Rachmaninoff's third concerto, dedicated to Josef Hofmann and played by the composer for the first time under the direction of Walter Damrosch during his tour of the United States in 1909, is, like the second, a work of indubitable mastery. Written in three movements: Allegro; Intermezzo-Adagio; Finale-Allegro, it is only slightly less demanding in tonal sonority than its better known predecessor, and calls for the ultimate in technique.

This version by the composer and the Philadelphia Orchestra directed by Eugene Ormandy is a revelation. Not only is the piano part authoritatively interpreted, but the inner orchestral voices, which were less clear in the older Horowitz (VM-117) recording, are distinctly heard in their true colors.

Rachmaninoff's clear brilliant tone and the full orchestration have been recorded in a startling lifelike manner. Every degree of tone from the softest pianissimi to the fullest fortissimi has been transcribed with the greatest fidelity on this superb set of discs.

RAVEL (MAURICE)

RAVEL: Quartet (Strings) in F. The Budapest String Quartet. Four 12" discs (8 sides), in Set CM-425†; price complete with album $4.50

At the first American performance by the Kneisel Quartet of this work, December 11, 1906, the critics were unanimous in their adverse judgment of the score. Many later lived to repent the derision with which they had showered this work, for it has since become one of the most frequently played scores of the modern repertory.

The music reveals Ravel as a typical product of French culture, and many of the innovations which are contained in this score have become the tags of modernism. The style is characterized by a sharp definition of line. There are the usual four movements: Allegro moderato; Assez vif; Très lent; Vif et agité.

The gramophonic standard has been the version by the Pro Arte Quartet (VM-400), but this new recording by the Budapest Quartet, who are making their debut on the Columbia label, will find many champions because of its clear and more vital recording.

RESPIGHI (OTTORINO)

RESPIGHI: Siciliana & GODEFROID: Etude de Concert in E-flat Minor, Op. 193 (both arr. Grandjany). Marcel Grandjany (harp). 10" disc, No. V-2117; 75c

Grandjany has made these interesting arrangements for the harp which he has recorded. The Siciliana is an old sixteenth century piece for lute. The performance and recording are first rate.

RIMSKY-KORSAKOV: Ivan the Terrible - Prelude to Act III. See DUKAS: L'Apprenti Sorcier.

SCHIASSI (GAETANO MARIA)

SCHIASSI: Christmas Symphony. Arthur Fiedler's Sinfonietta. 12" disc (2 sides), No. V-13446; $1

A charming miniature symphony in five short movements by Schiassi, a little known composer who died in 1754. A work for a small orchestra, the Christmas Symphony is simple direct music which has been recorded in Europe by Hermann Diener and his Musical College (G-EH1211) but this is the first time that this composition has been available in America. The performance and recording are excellent.

SCHUBERT (FRANZ)

SCHUBERT: Fantasia in C Major, Op. 15 - "The Wanderer" (trans. Liszt). Edward Kilenyi (piano) with Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Selmar Meyrowitz. Three 12" discs (6 sides), in Set CM-426†; price complete with album $3.50

Liszt discovered Schubert before his name was among the great. He made many arrangements of Schubert songs for piano. However, in the case of the Fantasia more can be said than about many of his other transcriptions, for he has followed Schubert's music bar by bar, and dispensed with the superfluous additions which usually embellish his other works of this genre. Where the piano plays solo, Schubert's music is left untouched. When the orchestra comes in, it either reinforces the harmony, or takes over the melody, the basses or the underlying rhythm, leaving the piano freedom of action in elaborate passage work. Schubert's trills are enlarged into characteristic Lisztian rumbling chromatics, and the simple arpeggios and chords are magnified so that the piano achieves a maximum of sonority. Short rhythmic figures in the piano part are often imitated in the orchestra, but only when the absolute purity of Schubert's harmonies allows the imitation. The result is a piano concerto, or, perhaps more accurately, a Concertstück for piano and orchestra, in which the pianist is not an absolute virtuoso reigning over an accompanying orchestra but rather a collaborator subordinating the importance of his part to the greater significance of the whole.

The Fantasia is in four movements: Allegro con fuoco ma non troppo; Adagio, which is based on a theme from The Wanderer; Presto; Allegro.

Clifford Curzon (D-X185/7) has given us a very satisfactory account of the work, but Edward Kilenyi, whose brilliantly successful American debut took place in Town Hall (NY) very recently, betters Mr. Curzon's reading. His interpretation is more poetic in the slow movement, and in the finale his clean, sparkling technique and power speak with authority over the well balanced and brilliant orchestral part.

The recording has captured the voices of the accompanying orchestra as well as the soloist's full warm tone in a most gratifying manner.

SIBELIUS (JEAN)

SIBELIUS: Belshazzar's Feast — Suite for Small Orchestra, Op. 51. The London Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Robert Kajanus. Two 12" discs, (4 sides), in Set VM-715; price complete with album $2.50

Sibelius wrote four pieces of incidental music for the play Belshazzar's Feast by his friend Hjalmar Procopé, the present Finnish minister to Washington. Rarely performed, this suite is perhaps the least known of his incidental compositions. It presents an unknown side of the composer — the one deliberate cultivation of exotic local color that is to be found in his music.

There are four numbers in the suite: Oriental Procession, Solitude, Night Music and Khadra's Dance. Orchestrated for two flutes, two clarinets, oboe, two horns, strings and percussion, the music is particularly successful in painting the mental pictures which the titles suggest.

Robert Kajanus, one of Sibelius's early champions, recorded this work shortly before his death on July 6, 1933. As the instrumentation is light, the issuance of this work at this time can be fully approved.

SIBELIUS: Romance in C Major for String Orchestra, Op. 42. The BBC Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Sir Adrian Boult. 12" disc, (2 sides), No. V-13499; $1

Contemporary with the Second Symphony, the Romance was published in 1903. Curiously enough, the music is in strange contrast to the title, being severe in character and deviating from the chief key, which is used only for brief spaces shortly before the close of the work.

A very fine version by the Boyd Neel Orchestra (D-25631) has enjoyed great popularity, but this new version, while it does not have all the richness and depth of string tone, will be found very satisfactory.

SIBELIUS: Svarta Rosor (Black Roses), Op. 36, No. 1 & Saf, Saf, Susa, Op. 36, No. 4. Jussi Bjoerling (tenor, in Swedish) with Harry Ebert (piano). 10" disc, No. V-4531; 75c

Jussi Bjoerling sings two popular songs by Sibelius with a wealth of lovely tone and considerable understanding. The recording is very loud, but the lovely rich voice of this young artist and the fine accompaniments of Mr. Ebert have been transcribed most satisfactorily.

SIBELIUS: Symphony No. 2, in D Minor, Op. 43.

The New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, conducted by John Barbirolli. Five 12" discs (10 sides), in Set CM-423†; price complete with album $5.50

With the second symphony, dating from 1902, Sibelius had begun to evolve his own style. The music is arresting, impressive and extremely northern, and denotes a marked growth in the composer's sworn direction of truth and simplicity. The work is in four movements: Allegretto; Andante; Vivacissimo; Finale-Allegro moderato, being in turn pastoral, introspective, somber in the slow movement and wildly exultant and powerful in the finale. The late Philip Hale quotes Sibelius's compatriot George Schneevoigt as saying that: "The composer's intention was to depict in the first movement the quiet pastoral life of the Finns undisturbed by thought of oppression. The second movement is charged with patriotic feeling, but the thought of a brutal rule over the people brings with it a timidity of soul. The third, in the nature of a scherzo, portrays the awakening of national feeling, the desire to organize in defense of their rights, while in the finale there is hope and comfort in the anticipated coming of a deliverer."

December 8th marks the 75th anniversary of Sibelius's birthday, and Columbia has given us a timely modern recording of this, the most popular of his symphonies, to mark the event.

Barbirolli has been justly admired for his dramatic and forceful reading of this score. His tempi, especially in the first movement, are faster than those of Koussevitzky, whose splendid version with the Boston Symphony (VM-272) has long been a favorite. Also, in the finale, Barbirolli is more vigorous in his attack and thus brings out the intensely patriotic nature of the composition.

The recording is very clear and full. However, we wish to call your attention that it is necessary to play all the new Columbia recordings with a chromium needle for the first few times in order to completely clean out the grooves and prepare them for satisfactory reproduction. Unless this is done a lusterless and thin tone will be obtained until the reproducing point has complete freedom in the groove.

This version by Barbirolli follows closely that of the late Robert Kajanus, (CM-149), who by reason of his long intimate association with the composer was accepted as the final authority on matters Sibelian. The advances made in recording technique will more than make up any slight differences in interpretation, and we feel that this superb recording will appeal to those who like a less polished and more earthy reading of this work than the Bostonians offer.

Bach (Johann Sebastian)

ORGAN MUSIC OF J. S. BACH

Gift Certificates

For the convenience of those who would like to give records for Christmas and yet are not quite sure just what records to choose, The Gramophone Shop issues Gift Certificates, which may be obtained for any amount. The friend to whom one is given may choose the records he most wants, at any time, upon presentation of the Certificate in person or by mail.

Why not give records? Nothing could offer more pleasure to anyone interested in music and by means of the Gift Certificates you run no risk of duplicating a work already in your friend's library, but permit him to select as his own taste dictates from the wealth of superb recordings available this year.
